RESOLUTION REGIONAL AIR SERVICE

The availability of commercial air service in the Delta region is critical to the future outlook of economic growth. Without commercial air service in the Delta, existing industries are enticed to take their management and administrative operations to larger metropolitan hubs where interstate and international commercial flight service is available. Additionally, the availability of commercial air service is a major factor in the investment decisions by industrial prospects who rely on commercial flights for their staff, their clients and their suppliers.

The Mid-Delta Regional Airport offers the only commercial air service in the Northwest Mississippi region, as well as other parts of the Ark-La-Miss Delta. The availability of commercial air service at this regional facility represents the only existing opportunity which our region has for offering commercial air service to businesses which are so dependent on air travel.

Delta Council urges local businesses and industries to support the Mid-Delta Regional Airport. We offer our assistance in any way possible to help strengthen and maintain the existing carrier and airport services.
